

Table of Contents

Prologue	V
Chapter One: The Karaite Community of Jerusalem in the Tenth and Eleventh Centuries: Background and Development	1
A time of intellectual change	1
Putting the Bible at the center	3
The raw materials of exegesis	5
Early Judeo-Arabic Bible exegesis	7
The Firkovich collection	9
Scholars of Jerusalem	10
Yūsuf ibn Nūḥ	12
Abū al-Faraj Hārūn	14
Chapter Two: The Evolution of the Talkhīṣ	17
The art of abridgment	19
Explicit references to the original author	20
Grammatical method and choice of language	21
Contradiction of Ibn Nūḥ's explanations	27
Incorporation of sources written after the death of Ibn Nūḥ	31
Later exegetes and the Talkhīṣ	34
Preservation of the Talkhīṣ in the works of 'Alī b. Sulaymān	38
Preservation of the Talkhīṣ in anonymous compilations	44
Chapter Three: Exegetical Methods in the Talkhīṣ	47
Issues of translation	47
Paraphrase	50
Description of lexical and syntactic phenomena	51
Transmitting traditional interpretations	54
Familiarity with numerous earlier sources	56
Relationship to the exegesis of Yefet b. 'Elī	59

Adoption of rabbinic explanations	64
Conjecture	68
“Selected Issues”: Masā’il	71
Grammatical analysis	74
Treatment of legal issues	76
Historical and prognostic exegesis	77
Polemic	81
References to contemporary custom	83
Chapter Four: Explaining the Structure of the Bible	87
Karaite descriptions of biblical structure	88
Principles governing biblical arrangement	90
The bible as a transparently arranged text	95
Introductions and conclusions	95
Punctuation	100
Nothing is out of place!	104
Biblical beauty	106
Did Rabbanites adopt such an approach?	109
Motivations for Karaite discussions of biblical structure	112
Karaite religious principles	112
Traditional Jewish Bible study and Masoretic occupations	114
Contemporaneous composition	115
A response to polemic?	117
Chapter Five: The Anonymous Organizer of the Bible: the Concept of the Mudawwin and its Origins	119
Origins	120
Moses as mudawwin of the Torah	123
The mudawwin as an exegetical tool	124
Moses’ authority as prophet	136
Chapter Six: A Theological Reading of the Bible	139
Mu’tazilite theology	141
Reformulation of biblical concepts in Arabic theological terms	146
New exegetical problems	151
New solutions to old exegetical problems	164

Epilogue	175
Appendix: Manuscripts and Judeo-Arabic Texts	179
Appendix 1: Manuscript sources	179
Appendix 2: Citations from the Talkhīṣ	182
Appendix 3: Citations from other sources	205
Appendix 4: Manuscript colophons	209
Bibliography	211
Index of Biblical Verses	223
General Index	225